

R85 Helpsheet (2007)

Getting your interest without tax taken off

This Helpsheet is for you to use and keep

Please do not give or send it to your bank, building society or your HM Revenue & Customs office.

Everyone who lives in the United Kingdom (UK) is allowed to earn or receive income of at least £100 each week before tax has to be paid. If your income is below this limit and you have money in a bank or building society account which earns interest, you may be paying tax when you don't have to.

To find out whether this applies to you (or to an account you look after for someone else), please read this Helpsheet and answer the questions.

If you do not live in the UK continually, different rules may apply to you. Please phone the Helpline to find out more.

Children under 18

Children get tax-free income too. But if money given by a parent produces interest of more than £100 a year, the interest will be treated as the income of the parent that gave them the money. This rule does not apply to money given by others, including grandparents. For more information, phone the Helpline.

Looking after an account for someone else?

If you look after an account for someone, perhaps a child under 16 or someone who can't manage their own money themselves, use their details (including their address) when you complete the form. For more information, please read the declaration on form R85, Getting your interest without tax taken off.

Getting your interest without tax taken off

Is the figure in box 5 less than the figure in box 4 overleaf?

Yes No

If Yes, please complete form R85 and hand it to your bank or building society. You will then receive your interest without tax being taken off it first.

If No, please do not complete form R85 as you are not eligible to receive interest in this way.

Form R85 Getting your interest without tax taken off

If you calculate that your annual income is lower than your tax-free income limit you should complete form R85, Getting your interest without tax taken off, which came with this Helpsheet. If you need another, ask your bank or building society for a copy. Alternatively, phone the Helpline on 0845 980 0645 or go online to www.hmrc.gov.uk/taxback

By completing form R85 you are telling your bank or building society that you do not have to pay tax.

If your income goes up and that means that you should start paying tax, you must tell each bank or building society with whom you have an account. It is not their responsibility to check that the information you have given on form R85 is true or up to date. Please note however that we may check the information you have given.

If you open a new account you will need to complete another form R85.

If your bank or building society has already taken tax off your interest in this tax year 2007-08, which runs from 6 April 2007 to 5 April 2008, they may be able to repay it to you.

If you have difficulties signing or making a mark, please phone the Helpline.

Paid too much tax in earlier years?

If you've paid tax on your interest in the past, but now think you should not have done please phone us on 0845 366 7850 or go online to www.hmrc.gov.uk/taxback/claiming-back.htm

You have up to five years from 31 January after the end of each tax year to claim tax back. For example, if you paid more tax than you needed to for the tax year 2001-02, you have until 31 January 2008 to claim it back.
